Recognitions:

What would you do for some beads . . . Megan Schimick was recognized $125 for her recent trip to New Orleans where she had a lot of stories, which could not be shared in mixed company. Her favorite part was doing a swamp boat tour . . . by the way she just had a birthday.

Down in the bayou . . . Eric Colvin's accompanied Megan Schimick and had a few more details on the trip (such as the swamp boat operator trying to get an alligator on the boat). He said Megan drank absinth, the food was amazing and had to come home to rest. For her candor, Eric was recognized $100.

Sushi's on the menu? Awesome! Sherm Frederick was recognized $100 for two dalliances with near naked women. First he said a couple of Rattler Cheerleaders had to have their picture taken with him but most interested is Sherm posted a picture of a completely naked woman covered in sushi from the Las Vegas Country Club Members/Guests Golf Tournament. Unfortunately, he didn't check his privacy settings and the picture posted to the world. He apparently had been receiving flak for it from church members and Joanne Blystone.

Does the Rain in Spain stay mainly on the plain? Tom Martin wasn't asked this question but he was asked about his recent trip to Spain and Portugal. He said he took a river cruise where they saw medieval cities walked a lot and had a wonderful time. Tom was recognized $50.

Pins, pins where are your pins!!!! Bruce Pope was interrogated on how many people at his table were or were not wearing pins. Let's just say more than a couple weren't. Each were recognized $15.

... Troy Lochhead's birthday is next week . . . don't check facebook to find out her age.

Gifts for the President:

Tom Martin gave Troy a rooster wine stopper from Spain as well as a cork pen. Megan Schimick gave Mardi Gras beads and Eric gave a Christmas ornament because he couldn't find a wine stopper in all of Louisiana.

Tom Warden
Senior Vice President of Government and Community Relations
Howard Hughes Corporation

Former long-time local broadcaster and current Howard Hughes Corporation senior vice president of government and community relations Tom Warden spoke on the general scope of Summerlin, the country's largest master-planned community of 22,500 acres as well as the upcoming opening of the Shops at Summerlin and future development of Downtown Summerlin.

Summerlin currently has 100,000 residents was room for another 100,000. It currently has 19 villages (30 in all will be developed), 150 parks, 22 schools and 9 golf courses. He mentioned that only one or two new golf courses will be built due to water restrictions.

The Shops at Summerlin are set to open the Fall (October) with 1.6 million square feet of retail, dining and office space. He provide images of the contemporary look and feel for the 130 shop complex being developed on 106 acres.

In addition to the Shops at Summerlin, Tom provided a preview of the 220 acre "downtown" of Summerlin which will look more like a traditional city downtown with mid and high rise living.

It's hard to believe but Doug Malan's son Adam has even better hair than he does!

I think all can agree, this picture of Shelley Shields and Jessica Horst is much more pleasing to the eye than a picture of Bruce Pope and Tom Martin.

Eric Graham so photbombed Liz Teramoto.

"No Hank. I'm not showing you how I got those beads," explains Megan Schimick.

"Hank, I'll show you . . ." Eric Colvin offers.

"Okay. First, the facial hair is just an experiment," explains Rich Hinshaw.

"I LOVE sushi!" exclaims Sherm Frederick.

"You want ME to rat out my fellow table-goers?" laments Bruce Pope.

Too many jokes, not enough room.

"GIVE ME MY PRESENT NOW!" Troy demands.

Is it just me, or does Tom Warden not age! Great presentation!

Troy and Ted present the bell to the Las Vegas Rotary Club.
